Alterative

To Purify the Blood use Dr. [illegible] Alterative. It acts directly on the blood, stimulating the absorbents [illegible] overcoming the obstinate stains of the pores of the skin, and imparting a healthy glow to the Complexion. Pimples, Pustules, Tetter, and Skin Diseases of all kinds, [illegible] Affections, Tumors, and all varieties of complaints arising from depraved or disordered blood, are effectually eradicated by this [illegible]

Scrofula in all its Forms is [illegible] by the persistent use of Dr. [illegible] Alterative. It destroys the [illegible] ous principle which originates [illegible] fula, and ultimately drives it from the system. It will remove [illegible] ments of the Glands or Bones, and is a safe remedy in cases of Ulcers or Sores of all kinds.

Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings effectually cured by Dr. [illegible] Alterative. By stimulating [illegible] of the absorbents, all [illegible] careous depositions are carried off, toning up the [illegible] the same time, by strengthening the digestive organs and [illegible] Liver, Kidneys, &c. to perform their functions. For Dyspepsia and [illegible] Complaint it has proven a [illegible] and it has established cures in [illegible] of Epilepsy. It may be safely relied on by any one failing a medicine to build up the system, cleanse the blood, or to restore the normal action of the Secretive Organs.

CINCINNATI CONVENTION.

Second Day.

CINCINNATI June 1[illegible]—Delegates began to assemble in the hall before 10 but the convention was not promptly called to order because it was known that the committee on rules were unprepared to report in consequence of debate on the proposal to rescind the rule adopted yesterday against the changing of votes pending the announcement of any recorded ballot.

The latest advices are that the rule will be reconsidered and defeated. At 10 10 the delegates were generally in their seats. President McPherson called the convention to order and presented Rev George Beecher who opened the proceedings with prayer. George F. Hoar of Massachusetts presented the memorial of the National Woman's Suffrage Association. As this paper must go to the committee on resolutions Hoar moved that Mrs Sara J Spencer be heard by the convention for ten minutes. Agreed to.

Mrs Spencer came forward. She proceeded to present in concise form the claims of women citizens to practical recognition and criticised the failure of the speakers yesterday to plead for them. The conclusion of her brief speech was received with applause.

Cessna from the committee on rules and order of business reported the recommendation of the committee on rules as follows: States to be called in order, each State to be entitled to double the number of congressional delegates and also each Territory and the District of Columbia. The report of credentials committee shall be disposed of before the report of the committee on resolutions and the platform is considered, and the platform before the nominations are made. The rule against changing votes on any ballot after once recorded unless to correct a numerical error was maintained in the report. Cessna would recommit report to ascertain if there are serious objections to any rules to be considered.

Hale, of Maine indicated an objection to the proposition that the platform must be made before presenting the candidate.

Cessna moved to take the vote on all the rules proposed except the one objected to by Hale, in order to take a separate vote on the latter.

Report of Committee on Rules.

To the Honorable the President and Members of the Republican National Convention: Your committee to whom was referred the matter of rules and order of business beg leave to submit the following rules including order of business for the government of the convention as follows:

Upon all subjects before the convention the States shall be called in alphabetical order and next the Territories and District of Columbia. Each State shall be entitled to double the number of its Senators and Representatives in Congress according to its apportionment and each Territory and District of Columbia shall be entitled to two votes. The votes of each delegation shall be reported by its chairman. The report of the committee on credentials shall be disposed of before the report of the committee on platform and resolutions is acted upon and the report of the committee on platform and resolutions shall be disposed of before the convention proceed to the nomination of candidates for President and Vice President. In making the nominations for President and Vice President in no case shall the calling of the roll be dispensed with. When it shall appear that any candidate has received the majority of votes the President of the convention shall announce the question to be "shall the nomination of the candidate be made unanimous" but if no candidate shall have received a majority of the votes cast the chairman shall direct a vote to be again taken which will be repeated until some candidate shall have received a majority of the votes cast and when any State has announced its vote it shall so stand until the ballot is announced, unless in case of numerical error. When a majority of the delegates of any two States shall demand that a vote be recorded the same shall be taken by States, Territories and the District of Columbia, the secretary calling the roll of the States and Territories in the order heretofore stated and the District of Columbia. In the record of the vote by States the vote of each State Territory and the District of Columbia shall be announced by the chairman and in case the votes of any State Territory or the District of Columbia shall be divided the chairman shall announce the number of votes cast for any candidate or for or against any proposition. When the previous question shall be demanded by the delegates from any State Territory or the District of Columbia and seconded by two or more States and the call sustained by a majority of the convention the question shall then be proceeded with and disposed of according to the rules of the House of Representatives in similar cases. The rules of the House of Representatives shall be the rules of the convention so far as are applicable and not inconsistent with the foregoing rules. A Republican National Committee shall be appointed to consist of one member from each State and Territory and the District of Columbia represented in this convention. The roll shall be called and the delegation from each state Territory and the District shall name through their chairman a person to act as a member of such committee.
[Signed.] J CESNA, Chairman
R A DAWSON Secretary

Stillman of New York gave notice of a proposed amendment providing for a half hour recess after each ballot.

Hall moved to strike out that portion of the rules that there shall be no nomination until after the platform is disposed of. He briefly sustained his amendment urging when the organization of this convention was completed, it proceed at once to nominate.

Cessna of Pennsylvania said in 1860 the Republican Convention made its platform before it named the candidate. It is absurd to put a man on horseback before you caught your horse. [Applause.] We may make a platform that will reduce the number of candidates. [Applause.]

Norris of Ohio said in 1860 the platform was reported before the candidate was nominated. He concurred in the absurdity of making the candidate before the platform was agreed on. It might turn out that he was not fitted to it.

Cessna said if we nominate candidates before we make a platform half the delegates will be on the way home before the platform is presented, and there will be no proper deliberation.

John T Ensore chairman on credentials reported that full delegations are present except from North Carolina and Nevada who are each one short.

Cessna remarked that he learned that neither delegation from the District of Columbia was regular and would amend the report by substituting the name of Fred Douglass for that of Bowen, thus giving each of the contesting delegations one vote.

A Virginia delegate contended that there was evidence sustaining Cessna's claim of irregularity.

Bowen and Green charged that Cessna's suggestion was prompted only because Douglass sympathized in his own view as to candidates.

Ensore certified that the committee was nearly unanimous in their decision that the Bowen delegation was entirely regular.

Cessna amid great confusion and repeated interruption withdrew his motion.

The report of the committee on all points save the Alabama case was then adopted.

The question recurring on the Alabama case Ensore replied to the argument of the minority report which claimed that the majority had no facts to sustain their report. The minority had presented an overwhelming array of facts to sustain their report and the majority could not dispute them.

Atkins of Georgia followed for the minority report. The only claim of irregularity in the origin of the movement out of which it finally and by natural succession came the election of the Spencer delegation was based upon the fact that the Republican State Convention elected one side of the case and warned the gentleman that if he was going to fight out in the committee the [illegible] battles in the South farewell to Republican success. [Applause and hisses.]

A Wisconsin delegate moved the previous question which was sustained. The question was stated first on the adoption of the minority report. The roll of the States was called and the vote resulted yeas [illegible] nays [illegible] so the minority report was rejected. The question recurring on the adoption of the majority report it was carried affirmatively with but few dissents.

Platform Adopted.

Hawley of Connecticut from the committee on resolutions reported. The report opened with congratulations on the part of the Republican party since under Providence it rid the country of slavery and established a government by the people for the people. The report declares that the United States is a nation not a league and the Republican party is the defender of popular government. It proceeds to state in detail [illegible] duties of the party in the protection of all citizens, to advocate a steady progress to specie payment, that senators and representatives should not dictate appointments, fitness and capacity should be the sole passports to office and the maintenance of the faithful officer should be [illegible]. It recommends a constitutional amendment against any appropriation [illegible] sectarian control. The latter was reread in response to loud calls and cheers [illegible] our opposition to [illegible] and our duty [illegible] inquiry into the effect of the Mongolian immigration [illegible] respectful consideration of woman's claims to participation in the government. It reaffirms the duty of suppressing polygamy [illegible] the Democratic party [illegible] the same in character [illegible] sympathize with treason [illegible] unworthy and incapable [illegible] his patriotism and services.

Pierce of Massachusetts moved to strike out the reference to Mongolian immigration [illegible] denounced as a departure from every Republican platform and of the principle of the Declaration of Independence and the law of Christian love, which makes all men equal.

Axtell of New Mexico opposed the amendment. The people of the Pacific States are positive [illegible] party all desire an investigation of the Mongolian question which has been submitted to in good faith but is used simply as [illegible] servile coolie laborers by their pagan customs and habits to degrade the American laborers.

Jones of Nevada, followed. The question is of great importance to the people of the Pacific Coast. He described the degraded character of this Mongolian people who recognize [illegible] no virtue among women. They [illegible] nothing to churches [illegible] will live for [illegible] per day in competition with American labor [illegible] families schools churches and institutions. [illegible] an investigation by Congress [illegible] as to the real facts of the [illegible] is not necessary [illegible] the careful consideration of the resolution to see if our free people [illegible] again later.

Curtis of New York urged that in the beginning [illegible] Republican party [illegible] from the principles of the Declaration. As his remarks [illegible] anti Mongolian legislation would [illegible] he was received with great applause.

Roland [illegible] earnestly [illegible] pointed out the failure of Chinese immigration to assimilate to our own people [illegible]

A delegate from [illegible] demanded the previous question which was sustained.

The question was taken by states on Pierce's motion to strike out and resulted [illegible] yeas [illegible] nays [illegible]; so the motion to strike out was rejected. The resolution was then adopted.

The question next stated [illegible]

Davis of Texas from the minority of the committee on resolutions reported as a substitute a resolution declaring distinctly there shall be no further postponement of specie resumption beyond the date already fixed by law for such resumption. He thought the resolution of the committee too indefinite and ineffectual and only remitted the question involved to the domain of promise.

Hawley replied he thought in declaring the principles to govern the great party during four years it was better to confine ourselves to the declaration of fundamental principles without tying us to any specified case but leaving the latter to be adjusted in accordance with events. When he said resumption at the earliest practicable moment he meant it.

The substitute was voted down and the resolution reported was adopted and the whole platform was also adopted.

Nominations for President.

The chair announced that the next business was the nomination of candidates. [Great applause.]

Motions to adjourn were made and vociferously objected to. The question was put to adjourn until 10 o'clock to-morrow and lost.

Kellogg of Connecticut instructed by his delegation presented the name of Marshall Jewell for President. He briefly stated his record.

Thompson of Indiana said he was instructed by the entire Republican party of Indiana to put before the convention the name of Oliver P Morton as a suitable nominee for the Presidency of the United States. They knew him to be a worthy representative of the principles by which the republic has ever and must always stand. He referred to him as the great war governor because he won it in the field and by duty well discharged. He was equal to every crisis during the darkest hour of the rebellion and has been equal to every crisis since. In the Senate he stands the peer of the best. He continued to eulogize Morton at some length and urged that Indiana had never had a President. Nominate Morton and there shall go up a great shout of victory in November. He denied that Morton is physically unfit for the position of President. True he has been afflicted in his legs but it don't need legs to make a President. His head and heart are sound; his ability and patriotism are unquestioned. If the rights of the people regardless of color are to be sustained and the Union preserved no man is better calculated to do that.

Pinchback of Louisiana seconded Morton's nomination in the name of the truly loyal people of his state. He referred to him as a man of spotless integrity, matchless courage and of broad catholic views. His election would strike terror to the monsters in the South who are driving away capital, persecuting her loyal people and murdering them. It would be a complete final settlement of all great questions arising out of the war.

Gen Harlan of Kentucky came forward amidst the greatest applause exhibited in the convention to nominate Benj H Bristow in obedience to the instructions of the entire Republican party of his State. [The announcement of this name was the signal for another tremendous round of applause.] From the earliest of his manhood he had been true to the great principles dear to the heart of every Republican. He was reared in the school which taught him the United States did not constitute a league but a nation. Instantly, when the rebellion broke out, he announced the determination to stand by the Union cause come what might. He followed the words by entering the military service and subsequently supporting the cause with equal zeal in the legislature. Harlan proceeded at some length and forcibly to state Bristow's public record being frequently interrupted by cheers.

Judge Poland of Vermont seconded the nomination referred to. He said a larger proportion of the people of his State belonged to the Republican party than is the case in almost any other State. Vermont had not a candidate of its own but had a deep interest in the work of this convention. The [illegible] is an important one. The boast of the Democrats is that they go into this canvass with a united South in their favor. This is probably true, so it only needs a comparatively smaller fragment of the Northern vote to remit the destinies of the country again into the hands of those who sought to break up the Union. Vermont and Kentucky came into the Union together. He hoped they would stand together now for victory with Bristow.

Curtis of New York, now took the platform amid long and loud applause and in behalf of that vast body of Republicans of New York who have seen that reform is possible within the Republican party because they have seen the heavy arm of the government drawn upon the thieves he rose to second the nomination of Bristow. He pointed out the great occasion for reform and [illegible] Bristow is the one man who more than any other could at this time embody the sentiment of the country in behalf of such reform. The condition of the continued ascendancy of the party is that it shall discharge its duties to the people. He proceeded to eulogize Bristow and recited his history from the beginning of the rebellion to the present time. In conclusion he said if this is not to be the last successful convention of the Republican party it must go into the canvass with these cries: first absolute protection of all the rights of citizens everywhere; second the hardest kind of hard money and the earliest return to it; third no rings, no cliques, no continuance of personal government, nothing but the will of the people clearly expressed.

Richard H Dana of Massachusetts also seconded Bristow. He knew no other man that was sure to carry Massachusetts next November. Mark what I said, not that no other name can carry Massachusetts but that I know no other that is sure to do it.

When Maine was called upon a scene of the wildest enthusiasm ensued, delegates and spectators rising to their feet, waving handkerchiefs hats and fans, cheering long and loudly, the cheering dying away only to be renewed, and closing with three cheers for Blaine.

Ingersoll of Illinois took the platform and said he was satisfied with the loyalty of Bristow but if Massachusetts cannot carry any nominee of this convention he was not satisfied with the loyalty of Massachusetts. If it cannot carry the State by 75,000 they ought to sell out Faneuil Hall for a Democratic hall. [Applause. A voice: "and the monument from Bunker Hill."] He urged that the party demands now for President a man of character as well as before the election, a man of political and statesmanlike experience and a man of integrity; one who knows enough to know that the national debt must be paid through the prosperity of the American people, that money must be made not by law but by labor. Nothing could be more effective and impressive than the speaker's statements of the requirements of the people and the Republican party growing out of the needs of the hour. Each sentence was forcibly epigrammatic and elicited [illegible] of applause, and especially when he said the party demands a candidate [illegible] spotless [illegible] Confederate Congress. His announcement of the name of James G Blaine was the signal for another scene of tremendous excitement. The party wants a leader with the audacity of genius, the grandest combination of heart and conscience and the man [illegible] of the American people. James G. Blaine [illegible] army [illegible] great Republic [illegible] that leader of leaders James G Blaine.

[illegible] of Georgia related his journey through the country [illegible] the name of Blaine will [illegible] the people of this great country [illegible] New York who had seconded [illegible] Massachusetts [illegible] when the Republican party [illegible] Democratic victory [illegible] Blaine in the halls of Congress [illegible]

Blaine's Chances.

CINCINNATI, June 1[illegible]—There has been no change in the political situation to day. The adherents to Blaine [illegible] firmly. Every [illegible] is a little that no candidate since Clay ever held such complete power over his followers. They [illegible] whether his nomination [illegible] that the country [illegible] him are attempts at moral assassination [illegible] that the late [illegible] private rights and correspondence [illegible] has only furnished [illegible] unwarranted by fact, and if the utter failure to produce any [illegible] the present necessity for his defeat it will be a [illegible] conclusive evidence that a thing can be [illegible] his enemies have only vindicated the confidence of his friends and so far from compelling him to a defensive campaign they have given him a [illegible] capital and [illegible] inimitable power to draw upon the sympathy of the public as one slandered because his fidelity to party principles had won him the first place among the popular candidates for the Presidency and challenged the deepest fears of the opposition.

Only one man (Judge Hoar of Massachusetts) is heard of as likely to drop Blaine after the first ballot while many others are known to [illegible] vote for him after giving a complimentary vote to certain favorites.

[illegible] Conkling men as a rule are disheartened but their chief leader Cornell [illegible] with inveterate tenacity and made strenuous efforts during the day to effect some combination between Conkling, Morton and Hayes to defeat Blaine, which have resulted in a grand failure and abandonment.

Bristow's strength increased under the effect of the effort organized only yesterday, but still the political workers give him but little support. His prospects are worthless except in an improbable condition of a general break down of all other candidates.

Unless something unforeseen develops there is no doubt of Blaine's nomination not later than the third ballot.

The streets are crowded with processions to-night; brass bands, excited throngs simulating a spontaneous and exaggerated Fourth of July, but it was only Blaine's adherents who manifested much vital enthusiasm and confidence in the result. The whole scene was most remarkable.

California will probably give Blaine nine votes on the second ballot.

Enthusiastic Bristow Meeting.

CINCINNATI June 14—Another enthusiastic Bristow meeting was held to-night at Pike's Opera House. Among the speakers were H A Chadbourne of Massachusetts, Wm C Goodloe of Lexington Ky, and others. After the meeting adjourned they serenaded the New York Reform Club, George William Curtis, Richard Smith and others.

No Changes of Votes on Roll Call.

At the meeting of the committee on rules to-night it was decided to recommend the adoption of a rule that no changes of votes be allowed during the calling of the roll, that they must be made after the result of the ballot has been announced. This is recommended by its convenience, for every attendant at a convention knows the annoyance of a stampede during roll call. This is claimed to be something more—that it is the first victory even if only in committee over Blaine and was regarded as such by his friends who say the committee will reconsider its action to-morrow morning. The adoption of the rule was vehemently opposed by Pennsylvania members. It is asserted the real reason of this opposition was that it would prevent this State making any demonstration in favor of Blaine if adopted by the convention, which is considered likely, since it will meet with the support of the friends of all the other candidates. It will cut off the hopes entertained by Blaine's adherents of doing what may be called forcing the game and rushing their candidates through by the aid of the flurries reached by two or three timely changes. An attempt was made to adopt a rule requiring each delegation to vote as a unit, but that was promptly voted down.

The tabling of Stillman's proposal for a half hour recess after each ineffectual ballot was Blaine's triumph.

The following is the Chinese plank: It is the immediate duty of Congress to fully investigate the effect of the immigration and importation of Mongolians upon the moral and material interests of the country.

The motion to strike out the resolution for investigating the question of Mongolian immigration was lost: nays, 215; yeas, 53.

Blaine's strength is developing by incidental votes. Votes in the convention to day satisfied New York that the nomination must go entirely outside of that State.

Michigan Unable to Agree.

The Michigan delegation held another meeting last night, which was not fully attended, only 18 being present. They took a ballot for President, which did not essentially vary from previous ones. They substantially made up their minds that they could not agree upon any one man and it is not likely they will hold another meeting.

Meetings in Favor of Morton.

Morton meetings were held this evening, one in front of the Gibson, another at the Burnett and a third at the Grand Hotel. The average attendance was estimated at from four to five thousand. The meeting at the Gibson House was addressed by colored speakers exclusively, among whom were Pinchback of Louisiana, Edward Belcher of Georgia and Elliott, of South Carolina. At the Burnett House the principal speaker was Jos Brooks of Arkansas while the crowd at the Grand hotel were addressed by Gen Tom Browne of Indiana and Joe Warden of Alabama. The burden of the speeches was that while no disparagement of other candidates should be made Morton stood head and shoulders above his rivals for the nomination in ability as well as in services rendered to the country.

Shepherd, Spencer & Co. Ruled Out.

The committee on credentials held a meeting this evening and after considerable discussion excluded the Spencer delegation from Alabama and the Shepherd set from the District of Columbia. The exclusion of the Spencer delegation which is composed of adherents of all the candidates and the admission of the anti Spencer delegation who will give Bristow 20 votes causes great rejoicing among the Bristow men.

Anti-Chinese Resolution.

Sargent's strong resolution against the admission to citizenship of the Pagan non assimilating Chinese has not yet been discussed before the committee on resolutions.

Platform Committee at Work.

The committee on resolutions met at 7 o'clock this evening and remained in session until after 1. All this time was spent in the discussion of the financial question, polygamy and the southern and Chinese questions. No conclusion was arrived at concerning any of them, and most of them were referred to sub committees of five or seven, whose conclusions will probably be accepted by the full committee which will meet at 9 o'clock to-morrow. It is believed that the conclusion which will be reached on the financial question will be satisfactory to the hard money men. As regards the Chinese it is doubtful if any satisfactory settlement can be had. About the Southern question comparatively little was said. The discussion on these points was animated but not quarrelsome. Among the subjects discussed by the committee was that of woman suffrage, resolutions on which subject had been introduced. Two female suffragists pleaded their case before the committee. The sub committees of seven to which all subjects have been referred are holding all night sessions.

Combinations to Defeat Blaine.

Late this evening there were ominous rumors of new combinations to defeat Blaine. The ostensible proposition is to draw votes from Blaine and Morton in favor of Hayes or Hartranft. The real aim is to keep Pennsylvania and Ohio away from Blaine on the first three ballots in hope that if Blaine fails of a majority then his forces will break and Conkling's canvass can be renewed with success. [illegible] intrigue bears Blaine Conkling's profit [illegible] improbable.

CINCINNATI June 15—The anti Blaine work last night was done under an agreement between the friends of all rival candidates to operate in the direction of preventing Blaine's nomination but without any combination in favor of any one of the rival candidates afterwards if Blaine's ranks shall be broken. Unless Blaine wins on the third ballot it is probable that further balloting will be postponed until to-morrow.

Conkling's friends evidently realize to-day the impossibility of his nomination. They are talking of a new deal. Their most probable and practicable suggestion in that direction is Morgan and Hayes, although Bristow's friends are bidding for a combination between Bristow and Morgan.

The [illegible] committee on resolutions sat all night and has substantially agreed on a platform but the contest was renewed in full committee this forenoon [illegible] points. The anti-Chinese resolution was [illegible] by the sub committee that it [illegible] Senator Jones renews the effort in full committee to give it [illegible] muscle [illegible] The difficulty is to make Eastern representatives realize the danger [illegible] the Chinese evil in its social, moral and political influences and that its peculiarities take the question out of all argument on the general question of foreign emigration. The Pacific coast delegation are urgently urging that the St Louis convention will meet [illegible] the loyalty [illegible] Pacific States [illegible] takes high ground in the interests of [illegible] Christianity and civilization against the barbarism [illegible] subjects [illegible] of the United States [illegible] While there is [illegible] from Blaine [illegible] personal work against him [illegible] the second ballot [illegible] Blaine. His Maine force [illegible] danger is from defection [illegible] renewed claim that his Mulligan letters will [illegible] everywhere. Men who utterly refuse to believe anything against Blaine's integrity are less inclined to [illegible] the argument of expediency and the protests of those who still urge that with Blaine there must be a defensive campaign.

NEW YORK June 15—There can be no doubt that half the popularity of Blaine is due to the admiration which western delegates of [illegible] for his fighting qualities. If the convention is allowed a little more time for reflection Blaine will certainly not be nominated. Some of the western delegates who have either never read the Fisher letters, or never thought about their significance have now been induced to do both and the result is not favorable to the chances of Blaine. Were it not the impossibility of union among the friends of other candidates at present there would be little cause for disquiet for the chances of so strong and able a nominee as Blaine. The feeling in Washington is also becoming less favorable to Blaine as the practical politicians of the capital here say. The Democrats very cheerfully accepting Blaine's nomination as certain are discussing the proposal to nominate Gen Hancock to run against him. It is already cited as good argument in favor of the latter that he was fighting [illegible] against the enemies of the Union while Blaine was speculating in them. That is a species of campaign cry which no Republican could listen to with any degree of satisfaction. With such a nomination [illegible] Blaine the convention will probably pave the way for a defeat in November. Still Blaine is a better man than the Democrats can possibly nominate, so we may have to take a choice of two evils and a Democratic administration of almost any conceivable type would be an unmixed misfortune for the Southern States and for the Union of which they form a part. The Democracy in power would mean the revival of smouldering antipathies, the repudiation of the solemn promises and the degradation of the public credit. While considerations like these might save the Republican party from hopeless schism as the result of a discreditable nomination at Cincinnati they only help to signify the folly of the Republicans who are recklessly and blindly striving to make the prospect of a Democratic triumph really formidable.

The Herald's Washington special says: In connection with the candidacy of Blaine, leading Democrats continue to assert to-day that they are in possession of something very damaging about him. An effort was made to ferret out what this bugaboo is but those who were approached about it admitted their belief in it and its damaging character, but were unwilling to describe it, further than to say that it is a letter in Blaine's own handwriting, the possessor of which, a member of Congress, left town with it in his keeping three or four days ago. They also said it was the intention of the Democrats to have it lithographed as a campaign document. This is as much as can be learned about the matter to-night.

The Herald Returns to Conkling.

The Herald this morning returns to Conkling. It has a dozen line editorials to show that Blaine cannot carry New York or Pennsylvania, but that Conkling can.

The World's Cincinnati special has the following: All is settled for Blaine except the shouting. Conkling is determined if he cannot win Blaine shall not. Blaine's opponents cannot agree on a compromise candidate.

PIONEER REUNION.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE OREGON PIONEER ASSOCIATION ON THE STATE FAIR GROUND.

Again the bright days of June, dispelling the frown of the wintry god, and ushering in on her rosy pathway the glorious summer, call together the fathers and mothers of Oregon to celebrate the advent of civilization and progress into the regions of the great northwest. Again the Pioneer Association of Oregon come together around its common altar to join in a jubilee over the completion of the toils and the accomplishment of the hopes of its honored members. Here they will not only unite in the more public exercises of the occasion but in groups of two or three or more, with social mein, recount the steps by which the bright present from the difficult past has been reached, talk over the growth and progress they have made since the days of "Auld Lang Syne," when, where now the tinkling of the bells of a thousand herds, or the busy hum of civilized industry is heard, nought but the howl of wild beasts or the savage yell of wilder men woke echoes on the plain or in the grand old woods.

And it is well that thus the founders of our State agree to commemorate its primitive history, and keep alive the memories of the past, that with the return of each summer they gather in common with their wives and little ones at a stated spot, and tell the [illegible] of their experience to the generation that is fast taking their places; for even already many of those who saw the beginning of these things, who were present when the foundation stone of progress was laid in Oregon, have [illegible] gathered to their fathers and sleep in honored graves, and in a few years more those who answer to the roll-call of the years prior to 1850 will be numbered by tens, as even now are those who pitched their tents on Oregon soil before 1846.

No place more appropriate than the State Fair grounds where the Association now holds its annual reunion could have been selected. No better time could have been appointed than the middle of June, and no fairer day could be experienced this side or perhaps in the balmy clime of Italy than we have to-day. Long before the south-bound train arrived a large number of people had come by the cars bound north, and by every other known means of conveyance from all parts of the State, and the crowd numbered several thousands. At 10 o'clock the train from Portland and way points arrived, bringing many more, and the PROCESSION FORMED.

Under the marshalship of Thos. C. Shaw, Esq., headed by a large American flag, borne by Mr W S Herren, accompanied by Mrs Olivia Smith, daughter of W. H. Rees, of Butteville, and one of the pioneer young ladies of the State. Immediately after the flag bearer came the Northwest Band, of Portland, discoursing appropriate airs. Then followed the large, beautiful and appropriate banner recently painted by Col Reed, of Salem, for the Association, borne by the standard-bearer; next the president and vice president of the Association, chaplain and orator, essayist and poetess, members of the Pioneer and Historical Society, secretaries and treasurer of the Society and invited guests. Then came members of the Society, male and female, who came into the Territory previous to January, 1841, followed by the 13 divisions to January, 1854. The procession was followed in its line of march by an irregular throng of hundreds of citizens to the beautiful oak fronting the pavilion, where the vast crowd was at last comfortably seated. After music by the band, Rev. Wm Roberts offered a fervent prayer to the Supreme Ruler of states and nations, while the entire audience arose and with uncovered heads observed the strictest decorum.

HON. J W GRIM,

President of the association, then delivered the opening address, as follows:

Fellow-citizens, ladies and gentlemen of the Oregon Pioneer Association: In compliance with the constitution of our organization, the ceremonies of your fourth annual reunion have now commenced. The 15th of June is an historical day in the annals of the former Territory of Oregon, and by your [illegible] law has been set apart as an anniversary for the reunion of her early pioneers, the men and women who brought from their far-off Eastern homes and planted by their own unaided exertions upon this western shore the inestimable blessings of civil and religious liberty. While we cannot but drop a silent tear at the tombs of John Ford, Col Joseph L. Meek, Captain L N English, Samuel Allen, David Weston and J J Mathiot—all veteran pioneers of Oregon, and most of whom were present with us upon these beautiful grounds twelve months ago—and remembering that those who are gone are only a few camps in advance, yet we have cause to return thanks and rejoice with an honest joy springing up from the innermost recesses of our hearts that so many of the early fathers and mothers are present with their children, children's children, and friends to take part in the exercises of this thirtieth anniversary of the day we commemorate.

The Oregon Pioneer Association is historical and social in character, hence fellow members you have a high and responsible duty to perform, and as its founders, will in due time be rewarded for your labors, if you shall faithfully continue to observe your high trust.

Your historical association will be perpetuated by your children. It will grow with their growth and strengthen with their strength. The geographical boundaries of the country over which your historical researches may extend is vast indeed, limited on the east by the summit of the Rocky mountains, on the west by the Pacific ocean and extending from the 42° to the 49th parallel of north latitude, which comprises the outline of the original Territory of Oregon. I can not but congratulate you, ladies and gentlemen of the association, upon the rapidity with which your historical collections, published and unpublished, are accumulating. But for the greater part of this valuable labor the association is indebted to but comparatively few of its members. Hence permit me to say, it is our intention to contribute [illegible] single thought, incident or historical fact to our archival collection that [illegible] should not be delayed, for each returning Pioneer day will find our ranks more and more decimated by the ravages of ever rolling time.

It is hardly necessary, fellow members, for me to remind you that this great nation is now nearing the Centennial anniversary of her birth. We are forty millions of people united in a great and invincible Republic. The next Centennial year will find us a gigantic nation of one hundred million, with at least thirty million on the Pacific coast. And let us hope for the benefit of posterity, a republic still, with all the blessings the name implies.

Now that our kindred organization all over this broad land are putting forth their best energies toward the consummation of the special objects which call them into life, it would be well for us to emulate their praiseworthy example.

I am also gratified on behalf of this association, to send greeting to our sister organization the Pioneers and Historical Society of Oregon, your kindliest regards, fully [illegible] in the belief that their labors will add many valuable pages to the historical record of this western land.

In conclusion permit me, ladies and gentlemen, in behalf of this honored association to bid you all a most hearty welcome to this, the fourth annual jubilee of the Oregon Pioneer Association.

JUDGE BOISE

Was then introduced, and for about one hour addressed the audience in his usual strong, terse style, making one of the best [illegible] ever made before the association, relating many thrilling incidents and giving many details in connection with the early history of Oregon. His remarks were listened to with marked attention, and were highly interesting to all present.

At the conclusion of Judge Boise's address the assemblage dispersed through the grove and partook of their dinners brought along for the occasion. All being in the best of humor with themselves and the world, the joyous talk and laughter sounded as if coming from a group of merry-makers.

The poem and other public exercises will receive due notice to-morrow.

THE LATEST—BY TELEGRAPH.

The attendance at the Pioneer reunion is larger than in the forenoon. Mrs. Dawne's essay received great applause. The musical entertainment in the pavilion was largely attended.

The parties injured on the runaway will recover.

A son of J. P. Boothby was drowned in Kinney's mill-race this afternoon. The body has been recovered.

FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 16 1876

THE RECEPTION OF THE ADMINISTRATION CANDIDATE.

Evidently a strange perversity has taken possession of the great Republican party. No other explanation can be given of the way in which the great crowd of zealous Republicans received the speech of Mr. Woodford when he presented the name of Senator Conkling as candidate for President, before the National Convention. The Convention is or ought to be, composed of the very élite of Republicanism, and represent the creme de la creme of Republican sentiment. Mr. Conkling, it is well known, occupies the first position in the confidence of those at the National Capital who consider themselves the owners in fee simple of the party. And yet when he was proposed in the Convention as a candidate for President, not a stamp of applause was heard, not a shout went up to fret the expectant air and rejoice the hearts of the friends of the brilliant New Yorker, not a handkerchief waived in uncontrollable enthusiasm. And even when it was said by the Speaker, that, among the qualities and qualifications of Mr. Conkling as a leader of the great Republican party, he was a strong friend of Ulysses S. Grant, the mass of Republicans, who filled the halls and galleries of the building heard the name of the President and the eulogy upon the man who has always stood sponsor for his Administration, in ungracious if not sullen silence. It is past credence that the acknowledged favorite of the President fails to receive even the cheap compliment of a demonstration of approval when he is offered to a convention of his party as the successor of his great friend and patron. Why, even Morton was cheered. Is the friendship of the President fatal to any man who asks the friendship of the President's own party? Conkling is every way the superior of Morton, or else the former is greatly over-estimated or the latter as greatly under-estimated. And yet there are some found to do honor to Morton, who, though not the first candidate of the President and the rest at the White House, is their next man. Has it come to this at last, that only those who enter the lists with the armor of the National Administration upon them are to be denied the reception which usage has made almost a rule of convention etiquette? See with what unbounded enthusiasm the names of the two candidates known to be most earnestly opposed at Washington—Blaine and Bristow—were greeted. Really it begins to look as if the people had resolved to take the party out of the hands of the Washington ring, and to stamp with their disapprobation everything that savors of ring dictation.

THE PLACE FOR FARMERS.

Oregon never "goes back on" her people. It was feared for some time that, for once, the grain harvest would be very short; not on account of the crops when grain had been sown in the fall, but because the protracted rainy weather prevented the sowing of spring crops at the usual time. But such fears, we are informed by gentlemen who claim to be fully posted, will prove unfounded. The late rains have started the spring sown grain so well that a good average yield is expected, notwithstanding the lateness of sowing. A farmer from one of the valley counties expresses the opinion that spring-sown wheat, this year, will yield better than usual. The harvest will be later; the aggregate production, it is thought, will be quite equal to that of last year. During the thirty years of Oregon's agricultural growth there has never been a failure, or what could be termed a partial failure, of crops. It is, perhaps, within the limits of strict truth to say that in no other State in the Union can the farmer be so sure of reaping where he has sown as in Oregon. And it may be said, also, that in no other State can he realize so large returns for his labor. The cultivation which will give 25 bushels of wheat to the acre in the East, will give 40 to 50 bushels here. And then the farmer does not have to exhaust all the proceeds of his summer's work in feeding his stock in the winter. Oregon is the country for the industrious man to build a home in, for here he can get land at less cost than in the East, and there make a livelihood for his family with less labor.

THE CINCINNATI CONVENTION.

The Republican National Convention has, up to this time—Thursday night—made no nomination. The names of a number of distinguished men have been presented, with eloquent eulogies, and the convention has adjourned to meet Friday at 10 A. M. The names of Blaine and Bristow were received with great enthusiasm. Some of the others elicited slight demonstrations. It is noticeable that Mr. Woodford, in presenting the name of Mr. Conkling, stated that he did so in obedience to the instructions of the State Convention of New York, and Mr. Conkling's name was greeted with no applause whatever.

The victories in the convention, thus far, have been for Blaine and Bristow, and there is scarcely ground for a reasonable doubt that Blaine will be the nominee for President, with the strongest probability of Bristow for Vice President.

The platform adopted is sound and sensible, with little in it that is very remarkable. The enthusiasm this year will not be over the platform, but the candidate, though the platform is a good one.

The Washington ring, finding it impossible to break the ranks of the Republican party by pressing their pet candidate upon the convention, or by combining on their second best, have it is announced, cooked up a scheme for bringing forward a new man, to wit, ex-Gov. Morgan of New York. Morgan is a good man, for New York politics, but he would prove a certain failure in November, as a Presidential candidate.

It must have sounded very strange when Mr. Frye, in the course of his eulogy upon Blaine, in the Cincinnati convention yesterday, spoke of him as "Maine's idol son."

The question of precedence is one which troubles not only courts and princes, but also the republican ladies at Washington. The wife of a former Attorney General, who went to Washington some twenty years ago, was very much annoyed by it. She was a Creole, and spoke somewhat broken English, and said of her place among the ladies of the cabinet circle, in tones of lamentation, "I will walk behind mesdames of the State, the War, the Navy, and the Treasury, but Madame Postoffees, non non. My husband make the law and her husband carry the mail bags, nothing more."

The adoption of the rule against changing votes is a Blaine and Bristow triumph. It will bring the swappers to their senses as promptly as the call for ayes and noes had that effect on the filibusters who attempted to prevent an expression in favor of Blaine by our State convention.

We have no means of knowing the name of the person who sends us a letter from Dayton, W. T., signed "Ex Oregonian," and hence it must go to the waste basket.

The bees will swarm to day, with the two big B's in the lead.

OREGON AT THE CENTENNIAL.

The correspondent of the San Francisco Journal of Commerce writes of our exhibition as follows. Coming through a California paper makes it even more complimentary than it otherwise would be.

As Oregon is the only State or Territory on the Pacific coast which has yet completed her exhibit, I will close this letter with a brief description of the same. The managers of this exhibit are Mr. A. J. Dufur, State Commissioner, and Messrs. C. E Dubois and E. W. Ryan. They have erected and placed in order a magnificent pyramidal trophy, composed of the products of that State. The show is strikingly and tastefully arranged near the center of Agricultural Hall, with "Products of Oregon" conspicuously emblazoned on either side. The show attracts more attention and inquiry than almost anything else in the entire building. Notwithstanding every package and article is carefully described by a label conspicuously placed thereon, it still requires the almost constant attention of two persons to answer the numerous questions which are asked about the wonderful country which can turn out such productions. The exhibit is a splendid advertisement for Oregon, and a practical display of her resources, from which she cannot fail to realize much substantial gain.

I had no little difficulty in getting the information in regard to this exhibit which I desired, on account of the throng of people about it, who were continually calling on the attention of the gentleman who was assisting me, to answer their questions about the price of land in Oregon, the nature of the soil, character of the climate, prices of produce, cost of living, etc.

The show of wheat in this collection is particularly good, and attracts marked interest from farmers from all parts of the country. In company with several others I carefully compared several of the varieties shown from some of the Northwestern States and from California, and found the Oregon wheat quite superior in every instance. Judge Creigh, the California commissioner, was with us a portion of the time. As a Californian I greatly dislike to own up to such facts, but candor compels it, and when judgment is pronounced by the authorities of the commission it will surely be recorded as above. The wheat was shown in the kernel and in the ear, with the stocks and roots. The yield also, as given, was quite as remarkable. Golden amber, a spring wheat, averaged 62 bushels to the acre; several varieties of club wheat ran from 45 to 55. The Mediterranean, seven-headed wheat, averaged, from different localities, from 80 to 100 bushels to the acre. This variety, I believe, is not suited for domestic use, but its large yield renders it very valuable for feeding purposes. A sample of 90 day wheat was exhibited which was sown in the ashes upon newly cleaned land, burned over, but neither plowed nor harrowed, the grain being brushed in. It was harvested in 90 days from sowing, and yielded 30 bushels to the acre. White velvet wheat yielded 48 bushels, and Chile wheat, spring, 57 to the acre.

Two varieties of rye were also shown, which, on comparison with other exhibits, presented the same evidences of superiority as was noted in the wheat.

Oats were shown in five varieties. Surprise, 75 bushels to the acre, and 50 pounds weight to the bushel; Somerset, 75 bushels and 47 pounds weight; Side oats 87½ yield, 43 weight, German White, 68 yield, 50 weight.

The various woods of Oregon are also tastefully displayed in the rough and in various degrees of finish. A section of cedar cut from a tree 108 feet from the ground measured 6 9 feet diameter; another, taken 103 feet high, measured 7 4 feet. It was very naturally inferred from such an exhibit that Oregon had "big trees" as well as California.

The wool exhibit, though in small samples, was most remarkable for fineness and length, and evenness of fiber. Wool from an Oxfordshire sheep was shown (combed) 15 inches in length of fiber; combed Cotswold 15 inches long, which was pronounced by a wool buyer present, who examined it with a glass, to be perfect in uniformity of fiber, and of a quality excellently well suited for the manufacture of delaines. These wools were shown in fleece, washed and unwashed, as well as combed. Some very superior lambs' wool was also shown—French merino unwashed.

A very interesting and suggestive display of flax is also shown here—in the stalk, hetcheled and in the seed and cake. It appears that this flax is an experiment entered upon by two brothers named Williamson (Scotchmen), who arrived in Oregon some two years ago, and hired a piece of land near Albany, Linn county, for which they paid $15 per year rental—the owner seeding and sowing it. The flax is rotted, hetcheled and shipped to Europe for the manufacture of linen, the tow resulting from the hetcheling process is also utilized. The experiment is said to have been a very successful one, so that the brothers have been encouraged to extend their operations. The fiber is pronounced to be very long and superior in quality. These facts appear to indicate that this business might be made a very extensive and lucrative one. Californians will do well to make a note of it.

There is also a fine display of Oregon dried fruit—by the Alden process—which attracts much attention from its superiority over Eastern fruit dried by the same process.

Thus far our Northern neighbor, who has made such vast strides within the past two years, and which in this great Exposition of all nations has so far distanced us.

Water was at a stand here yesterday

The Hera arrived at this port yesterday

The Snake river is reported full of driftwood

The line was prostrated beyond Yreka last evening

The Ajax will depart this morning at three o clock for San Francisco

When and where will the water cease to rise, is the most interesting conundrum of the hour

The total loss sustained by reason of the fire Thursday morning will aggregate about $3 500

One week from to day will be the last day of the public schools of this city for the present year

No traces have been discovered of John Wall who is missing, and is supposed to have drowned himself

The bark Garibaldi arrived yesterday from Hongkong with a cargo of Chinese merchandise and [illegible] passengers

The Hall Street Aid Society will give one of their pleasant fairs and strawberry festivals at the church, this evening

The ship Sam G Reed was at Oak Point yesterday and will probably reach here to day She came with a load of Chinese passengers from Hongkong

Mr Nat H Lane who was appointed receiver by the State circuit court in the case of Knott vs Knott took charge of the Stark street ferry yesterday morning

Fever and ague in a condensed form can be seen floating on the surface of stagnant pools We refer to the green scum which covers the water in the lower portion of the city

Mr Wm Morgan an old ex printer is now engaged in the real estate agency business in Albany William is one of our boys here and has the best wishes of all the craft for his success in his new avocation

The Hall street M E Sunday school will give one of their concerts next Sabbath afternoon, commencing at half past 2 An excellent programme has been prepared and a pleasant and profitable entertainment is anticipated.

Mr Jas Lotan, U S inspector of boilers returned Wednesday evening from a tour to Coos Bay During his absence Mr Lotan inspected the boilers of the Juno and Katie Cook (both new boats) and the Myrtle and tug Fearless The trip to and from Coos Bay only required seven days

A FATAL FALL

Yesterday forenoon a man named George W Cresswell, a butcher by calling was thrown from a wagon while driving through Stephens Addition to East Portland, and received injuries from the effects of which he died in about thirty minutes Cresswell resided in East Portland, and makes a living by slaughtering and selling meat Yesterday he had occasion to haul a barrel of lime from his house down to Mr James B Stephens' While on the way there he was thrown from his wagon (at least every appearance seemed to indicate that fact), and striking on the top of his head sustained fatal injuries He was alone at the time, and the exact circumstances of the accident will probably never be known Several persons, among whom was Dr Rafferty saw the horse running without a driver and following back the road found Cresswell lying at one side breathing but unconscious He lived only a short time after being found It is said that the road at the point where the unfortunate man was found, is perfectly smooth so that the vehicle could not have possibly run over any obstruction and the lurch thrown him out. The commonly accepted theory is, that the horse suddenly swerved to one side and that the luckless driver was pitched out head first. His neck was not dislocated nor was the skull crushed Death was doubtless caused by the violent shock sustained by the nervous system Cresswell was aged about 35 years and unmarried He has resided in this county for a number of years Deceased was industrious, and temperate in his habits and well respected Coroner Wetmore was notified and proceeding to the scene of the accident held an inquest. The following is the verdict of the jury

We, the jury empaneled and sworn by J A Wetmore, coroner of Multnomah county to inquire into all the circumstances attending the death of a man now lying before us do find that his name was George W Cresswell aged about 30 years a butcher by occupation and that he came to his death by being thrown from a wagon which he was driving in East Portland on the 15th day of June A D 1876 Cyrus Leyde Foreman W F Allen J W Saxton, Alfred Gill S O Gibson, J Crawford

Rev F Craig M D of Astoria and Rev C W Skinner of Olympia became members of the association and Rev H W Stratton of Albany and Rev P C Hetzler of Salem were invited to sit as corresponding members

The association then effected a permanent organization by electing Dr Atkinson as moderator and Rev M Eells clerk

The meeting was opened by reading a portion of the Scriptures, singing a hymn and prayer

It being the time appointed for the American Missionary Association Rev J F Ellis read an essay in regard to their work among the races of Negroes Chinese and Indians were made by Gen Howard in regard to the work at the South the building of the Emerson Institute at Mobile the growing energy and increase of education among the negroes and the growing favor of the work among the surrounding whites

In the afternoon after remarks of interest by Gen Howard and Messrs Stratton Knight Lyman Walker Atkinson and Skinner the following resolutions were adopted

WHEREAS, Some of the members of the American Missionary Association in the East have proposed the question of giving up their work among the Chinese on this coast and

WHEREAS, The number of these Chinese is very large the amount of wickedness and heathenism is very great the amount of religious work done by all denominations very small and the results of the work encouraging—

Resolved That it is the sense of this association that the work among the Chinese ought to be prosecuted to the full extent of the ability of the American Missionary Association

Resolved That the churches of this association ought to support the same work in the church and Sabbath school

Other questions which had more reference to the political aspect of the question, were referred to a committee consisting of Brothers Knight Howard and Skinner

Gen Howard then opened the subject of the Young Men s Christian Associations speaking of its organization in London its object to reach young men which had broadened into the idea of reaching old men and women and that it might be properly called the Christian Association He also said that it was not opposed to the churches, although it might be made to do so if the danger was not guarded against, and that it demanded the sympathy of the churches

He was followed by others, among them Capt Wilkinson president of the Y M C A of this city, who was invited to sit as a corresponding member

The church at Semiahmoo W T was by vote received into connection with this association

CENTENNIAL SERVICES.

The Bishops of the Episcopal church have set forth a service for use on the 4th of July and for the preceding Sunday on which day a Centennial missionary offering is to be made in all the churches. These services will be duly held in Trinity church Portland At the Sunday morning and evening services in Trinity church Bishop Morris will preach on the history of the Episcopal church in the United States The Bishop has addressed the following circular to his clergy and people in reference to the appeal of the board of missions on this subject

Dear Brethren I desire to call your attention to the accompanying address of the board of missions, and to ask that all our people will make such use of the approaching Centennial celebration as is therein proposed We certainly should not let such occasion pass without seeking to mark it in some way to the honor of God and the good of His Church The language of this address presents this duty in such forcible and admirable terms that I need but call your attention to it and make some suggestions in regard to the manner of securing the desired end A special service for the morning of the 4th of July and also one for the preceding Sunday has been set forth by the approbation of the presiding Bishop and a number of these services ordered sufficient for all congregations

I cordially recommend the use of these services and desire that on Sunday the offerings of every congregation large or small be asked for the purposes set forth by the Board of Missions I entirely approve of the general character of these offerings and hope that our people will see the fitness of making such a return to God on this day that claims to show forth a nation's gratitude Special offerings of course are not disallowed if any individuals or congregations have a reason or desire for such but it would seem most in accordance with the true spirit of this occasion that we discriminate neither against the heathen abroad nor the black or red man at home I would suggest that the Sunday morning sermon have reference to our own national church and the many trials and difficulties whereby through the good providence of God this vine of His planting has taken such good root and spread her boughs abroad over so much of this wide land Any kindred topics that occur to the clergy may of course take the place of the e if they so desire The service on the Fourth of July would better be at an early hour, but do not dear brethren let it occupy a subordinate place in your hearts neither be a mere service of the lips Let one and all, young and old go first to the house of God with humility reverence and godly fear to thank Him for our godly heritage before we take part in other demonstrations of joy and rejoicing

And let us beware that we do not adopt the too prevalent spirit of pride and boastfulness in reference to ourselves and our country Of whatever we have that is good and great we can only say, Not unto us not unto us O Lord while for much else we have cause rather to cover our faces for shame than to invite the gaze of the world The true lesson for us to learn now is, that Righteousness only exalteth a nation and that sin in low places or high is a reproach to any people

I can only ask that God will be pleased so to bless our efforts in this behalf that coming generations will be wiser and better for what we now do

I request that this Pastoral with the address of the Board of Missions be read to all the congregations on the last Sunday in June

Very truly yours

IN AND ABOUT ALBANY.

Occasional, writing from Albany under date of the 13th inst sends the following

Messrs Wheeler & Roberts have the frame of their mammoth feed depot up and are pushing the building to completion This will be one of the largest buildings in Albany

A large number of dwelling houses will be erected here this summer among the most elegant of which is that of Judge Strahan now well under way

For the past week Albany has been quite lively The farmers generally having completed their spring work find leisure to come to town and do a considerable amount of trading

The crop prospect is all that farmers could wish Spring sowed grain never looked better Albany prairie truly is a verdant spot in the land The harvest though it will be late will be abundant

Mrs I F Sox and Miss Sarah Althouse leave Albany to day the former to join her husband in San Francisco and the latter to visit friends in the East Many are the sincere regrets at the departure of these two most estimable ladies May their journeyings abroad be most pleasant and may they soon return to a permanent home in our beautiful village

The last remains of Walter Monteith were yesterday consigned to the city of the dead Religious services were conducted by Rev S G Irvine who gave a very interesting biographical sketch of deceased Walter Monteith was one of the most positive of men—with many warm friends and some bitter enemies But few men more universally had right on their side After the long years of his residence here, he leaves us regretted and respected by the entire community He leaves a widow three sons and many relatives here to mourn their loss

Yesterday we had a juvenile horse fair or rather a show of juvenile horses There was a collection of nine colts sired by Mr Myers' White Prince—imported Percheron stock Seven of these are now about 13 months old, and two are sucking colts perhaps one month old Following is a description of them T Powell gray horse weighs 1 020 pounds, S Cooper, iron gray horse weighs 830 John Isper gray horse 830 Wm Hale, gray horse 900 A I Bridgefarmer, gray horse, weighs 800 A Hartshupler, gray mare weighs 950 Jas Finlayson gray mare, not weighed but estimated to be fully as large as the heaviest I N Edwards gray mare colt, six weeks old weighs 340 These animals showed no evidence of extra keeping—were all just off the grass, and only in good growing condition Competent judges of the horse say this is the finest display of young stock they ever saw, and are undoubtedly superior to any other breed in the land Farmers here are coming to the sensible conclusion that they require good blood for farm horses just as much as the sportsman does for turf horses

Habitual constipation leads to the following results Inflammation of the kidneys sick and nervous heada he biliousness dyspepsia indigestion piles loss of appetite and strength all of which may be avoided by being regular in your habits, and taking say one of Parsons Purgative Pills night ly for four or six weeks.

LADIES!—Are you, or do you know of any person suffering from Rheumatism Toothache Headache, Ague or Swelled Face? Any bleeding of the lungs soreness or ulceration of the throat or inflammatory pains, external or internal in any part of the body? Has any accident produced burns bruises, sprains, wounds, inflammation or hemorrhage? Then resort to POND'S EXTRACT of the shrub Witch Hazel, the most potent, clean wholesome pain reliever and healer in the world This assertion is attested to by every person who has used it, We know of no exceptions. It is not a patent medicine and is endorsed in the medical publications of all schools. Pond's Extract is sold by all first class druggists at 50c $1.00 and $1 75 per bottle—the largest size much the cheapest If your druggist does not have it for sale, request him to obtain it for you.

VALUABLE LANDS FOR SALE.

600,000 Acres in

EASTERN OREGON!

For Farming and Grazing Purposes.

THESE LANDS ARE SITUATED IN WASCO Grant and Baker counties and are offered for sale in such sized tracts not less than 160 acres as purchasers may desire Here is afforded a most favorable opportunity to immigrants and settlers seeking homes and low priced land to acquire both on the most reasonable terms These lands are excellent for farming and grazing On most of the tracts no grubbing or other preparation of the land for plowing is requisite A growth of nutricious grass covers the uplands affording the best of pasturage, while in the valleys and bottom lands the grass can be mowed and made into hay Living springs and streams water the lands in various directions. The uplands or rolling lands can be put into crops with the most satisfactory return. Fruits, particularly peaches plums, grapes apples pears and cherries as well as the smaller fruits, can be grown in great abundance The climate of Eastern Oregon is very healthful Flourishing towns are located at convenient points for traffic, the mails are regularly conveyed throughout that section, and a prosperous population is already established occupied in farming stock growing mining and various other pursuits

Terms $1.25 per acre and upwards according to quality and quantity Interest ten per cent on deferred payments.

BAY VIEW HOUSE,

BAKER'S BAY, UNITY, W. T.

MR DEXTER INFORMS THE PUBLIC that his House is now open for the reception of guests Its advantages in every respect over any other Summer Resort are too well known to Oregonians to repeat here To strangers I will say that the place is in plain sight and across the Bay from Astoria on the sheltered side of Cape Hancock and very near and adjacent to the Fort and lighthouse on Baker's Bay a beautiful sheet of water unequaled for Sailing Rowing Fishing and Bathing The dark forest with its picturesque drives its mountain springs, profusion of wild berries wild flowers and ferns the horse trail to the Cape for Equestrians or walkers is one of the most delightful Panoramas to the eye ever witnessed The cosy beaches its caves luxuriantly wooded Island its views of Astoria Chinook Fort Stevens moist old Tillamook in the blue distance.

The courteous hospitality of the officers of the Garrison at the Fort and also of Mr Munson and family, of the Lighthouse make that place well worthy of a visit

The Salt Water Bathing in the bay within a few feet of the hotel excels anything far or near for warmth of the water and mildness of its waves far preferable to the heavy surf and cold winds for women children and invalids while the sturdy swimmer or those who love the foaming surf in a few minutes walk will find a beach unsurpassed in beauty hard and level for one continuous drive of thirty miles At this end are huge rocks stretching out into the ocean from which fishers take from the sea Bass Rockfish Tom Cod Porgies etc etc Crabs Clams Oysters &c in abundance and the Table will ever have a sufficiency of these luxurious adjuncts Boats in the Bay Saddle Ponies for the children Teams to the Weather Beach also quoit Swings Quoits etc FREE to Guests

Prices reduced from the old tariff

To those who would like to camp out wood and water and use of ground free Groceries provisions milk eggs butter etc for sale at a small profit [illegible] in board at the Hotel if they prefer at fair rates A large Livery stable two new and fine Ten Pin Alleys attached to the place

Stage Office to Oysterville Postoffice Wells Fargo & Co's office also there No raw winds or damp fogs and more beautiful tracks and baby groves cannot be found The only regret the landlord has is that his house is not larger but his grounds are large enough and beautiful enough to warrant next season a Hotel worthy of the surroundings
